PREFACE

There is no lack of incentives for producers of quality literature in our country—authors, publishers or artists—and the data that follow can be a matter of pride for any developing country.

We must acknowledge here the contribution of Pakistan Writers' Guild, the national organization of the authors of the country, which, besides coming out with its own resources, motivated the generous donors of major literary prizes, Adamjees, Dawoods, National Bank of Pakistan, United Bank Ltd. and Habib Bank Ltd., to extend their patronage to the field of literature. It is largely to the credit of this organization that the writer finds himself at the receiving end of most of these sumptuous awards.

Publishers' and designers' contribution in raising production standard and in imparting more eye appeal to our books is recognized by token but prestigeous awards instituted by the National Book Centre of Pakistan, and it should not be considered a mere coincidence that more books are now coming out with a pleasing format than was the case a few years back.

We do not believe that a prize is a magic wand to get masterpieces created, yet it goes a long way in stirring up hidden or complacent talent. In a country where literary activity is not remunerative enough because of limited editions and low literacy and purchasing power, not to talk of an apathetic attitude in certain affluent classes, the role of cash prizes and other awards cannot be overemphasized.

This is a completely revised edition of the first version of the guidebook published in 1964 under the title 'Incentives for Better Books in Pakistan.'

PRESIDENT'S AWARD FOR PRIDE OF PERFORMANCE

Instituted in : 1958

Amount of Award for Literature: Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 20,000

Languages : Urdu and Bengali

Frequency : Annual

Date of Announcement of Awards: August 14 (Independence Day)

The President's Medal for Pride of Performance constitutes the highest national award for a writer. The Medal, which is accompanied by a minimum cash grant of Rs. 5,000, may also be awarded posthumously.

Awards of similar denominations are given for notable achievements in other fields too—Science, Art and Sports, for instance.

In the field of Literature, the award does not go to any particular book or literary achievement, but rather to the life-work of a writer. It is bestowed in recognition of a litterateur's over-all contribution to the enrichment of national literature in Bengali or Urdu. There is no competition, as such, nor any books or theses are invited. The Awards, which are administered by the Ministry of Education, Government of Pakistan, are made by the President on the recommendation of a Standing Committee. The amount of the award varies according to the merits of each case, but in no instance it is less than rupees five thousand.

THE ADAMJEE PRIZE FOR LITERATURE

Instituted in : 1960

Total Amount of Prizes : Rs. 20,000

Languages : Urdu and Bengali

Frequency : Annual

Last Date of Entry : September 30

Date of Announcement of Awards : January 31 (Birth Anniversary of the Guild)

The scope of the Adamjee Prize for Literature covers creative original writing in the following branches of Literature: Novel, Short Story, Drama or any other form of fictional prose, Poetry, Travelogue and Biography. Reproductions, translations and adaptations are not included in the scope of the Prize. The books entered for competition are adjudged by a panel of judges appointed every year by the permanent Secretary of the Prize in consultation with the Secretary-General of the Pakistan Writers' Guild. The Award is divided equally between the best literary works of Urdu and Bengali.

RULES

Eligibility

The first edition of an original book published in Pakistan within the period prescribed hereinafter and written by a Pakistani citizen (within the meaning of Pakistan Citizenship Act), whether alive or deceased, and sent to the offices of the Guild listed below in the prescribed manner, will be eligible for consideration.

Explanation

(a) The author need not be a member of Pakistan Writers' Guild.

(b) In case the book of a deceased author gets the Prize, the cash award will be given to his legal heirs within the law pertaining to his religion and not to his attorney, assignee or a holder of a decree, etc. against the titles or assets of the said author.

Period of Publication

October to September every year (first and last dates of the months inclusive).

Procedure for Sending the Book

Any citizen of Pakistan can sponsor an eligible book in the following manner for consideration for purposes of the Prize :—

(i) Six copies of the book shall be filed by hand or by mail by September 30, at the following offices of the Guild :—

In the case of Urdu :	Pakistan Writers' Guild (Centre), 16/B, Sindhi Muslim Housing Society, Karachi-3.
In the case of Bengali :	Pakistan Writers' Guild, East Pakistan Region, Bardwan House, Dacca-2.

(ii) The books shall be accompanied by a prescribed form which is appended hereto. This form may be typed out for use. It is not necessary to use a printed form.

Limits

(i) Books written by the Secretary-General of the Guild, the Chairmen and the Secretary of the panels of judges, and their family members, will not be eligible for consideration.

(ii) Books sent for consideration in an earlier year will not be eligible for consideration.

Adjudgement

(i) Each year panels of judges will be appointed by the Secretary of the Prize in consultation with the Secretary-General of the Guild to adjudge the books received, provided that the following will be permanent personnel of the panels:

	Bengali	Urdu
Permanent Chairmen of the panels, with voting right.	Dr. Enamul Haq	Appointment to be made later.
Permanent Secretary for both Urdu and Bengali panels, without voting right.	Mr. Jamiluddin Aali.

(ii) The Secretary of the Prize will be the Principal Executive Officer of the Prize for all its purposes and shall administer the affairs connected with the adjudgement thereof.

(iii) Names of the judges will be announced only along with the results.

(iv) The adjudgement will be by majority decisions of the judges, and their deliberations will be confidential but their judgement will be published.

(v) In case a judge declines to give, or is unable to give, his definite opinion within the period prescribed for the said purpose, the Secretary of the Prize may appoint, either after consulting the Secretary-General of the Guild, or without it (in case the Secretary-General is not in Pakistan at that time), another judge, or, if sufficient time is not left for it, may do such things and take such action as he considers appropriate for the proper adjudgement and announcement of the Prize in time.

(vi) In case the present Secretary or a permanent Chairman of a panel of judges resigns or expires, the Secretary-General of the Guild will appoint another person in consultation with the Chairman of Adamjee Group of Industries.

Alternative Utilization

If the judges of a panel are of the view that no book is of such standard as to qualify it for the Prize, then the amount for that purpose shall be withheld and appropriated in such manner as is considered appropriate by the Chairman of Adamjee Group of Industries in consultation with the Secretary-General of the Guild for the advancement of the subjects laid down in the "Scope" of the Prize above.

Emergency, Interpretation and Miscellaneous

(a) In case the Secretary of the Prize satisfies the Secretary-General of the Guild that an emergency has arisen which calls for extraordinary action in connection with any rules or matters connected with the adjudgement or announcement of the Prize, the Secretary-General of the Guild or the Secretary of the Prize may take such action and do such things as he considers appropriate for the purposes of the Prize.

(b) Only the Secretary-General of the Guild and the Secretary of the Prize are authorized to interpret the rules and connected issues in respect of the administration of the Prize.

(c) Only the Chairmen and the members of the panels of judges are authorized to decide whether a book falls within the scope of the subjects prescribed above. The Secretary-General of the Guild or the Secretary of the Prize will not give any opinion on this matter.

Forms

Prescribed forms may be obtained from the Central or any Regional Office of the Guild free of charge either by hand or through self-addressed and duly stamped envelopes.

Adjudgement

(i) There shall be a Secretary of the Prize who shall be appointed by the Secretaty-General of the Guild, provided that till further arrangement is made Mr. Jamiluddin Aali shall be the Secretary of the Prize.

(ii) Each year panels of judges will be appointed by the Secretary of the Prize in consultation with the President of the United Bank and the Secretary-General of the Guild to adjudge the Prizes.

(iii) The Secretary of the Prize will be the Principal Executive Officer of the Prize for all its purposes and shall administer the affairs connected with the adjudgement thereof.

(iv) Names of the judges will be announced only along with the results.

(v) The adjudgement will be by majority decisions of the judges. Their deliberations will be confidential but their judgement will be published.

(vi) In case a judge declines to give, or is unable to give, his definite opinion within the period prescribed for the said purpose, the Secretary of the Prize may appoint, either after consulting the Secretary-General of the Guild, or without it (in case the Secretary-General is not in Pakistan at that time), another judge, or, if sufficient time is not left, he may do such things and take such action as he considers appropriate for the proper adjudgement and announcement of the Prize in time.

(vii) In case the present Secretary or a member of a panel of judges resigns or expires, the Secretary-General of the Guild will appoint another person.

Alternative Utilization

If the judges of a panel are of the view that no book is of such standard as to qualify it for the Prize, the amount for that subject shall be carried over for an additional Prize for the next year or withheld and appropriated in such manner as is considered appropriate by the President of the United Bank, in consultation with the Secretary-General of the Guild, for the advancement of the subjects laid down in the "Scope" of the Prize above, to be managed by the Guild.

Emergency, Interpretation and Miscellaneous

(a) In case the Secretary of the Prize satisfies the Secretary-General of the Guild that an emergency has arisen which calls for extraordinary action in connection with any rules or matters connected with the adjudgement of the Prize, the Secretary-General of the Guild or the Secretary of the Prize may take such action and do such things as he considers appropriate for the purposes of the Prize.

(b) Only the Secretary-General of the Guild and the Secretary of the Prize are authorized to interpret the rules and connected issues in respect of the administration of the Prize.

(c) Only the members of the panels of judges are authorized to decide whether a book falls within the scope of the subjects prescribed. The Secretary-General or the Secretary of the Prize will not give any opinion on this matter.

(d) The United Bank will bear the expenses connected with the adjudgement of the books received and will also pay the travelling, boarding and lodging costs of the Prize winners when called by the Guild to receive the Prizes.

UNESCO AWARDS ON BOOKS AND MANUSCRIPTS

Instituted in : 1958

Total Amount of Prizes : Rs. 8,000

Frequency : Annual

Last Date of Entry : January 10, or As Announced Each Year

UNESCO Awards on books and manuscripts are aimed at better production of suitable reading materials in the national languages of the area to meet the growing needs of new readers. For Pakistan, the UNESCO Project provided in the beginning six awards, once in every two years, to the authors of the best books for new reading public in Urdu and Bengali. In 1967, however, the prize plan was changed, and an annual amount of Rs. 8,000 was offered for best manuscripts instead of books in four prizes of Rs. 2,000 each, two in each of the national languages. Each manuscript should be suitable for new reading audience and children and should contain approximately 25,000 words.

The scope of subjects for the manuscripts includes—

1. Scientific discoveries and inventions covering developments in the fields of peaceful uses of atomic energy, transportation and communications, utilization of natural resources like minerals and sea water, conducive to better living, better clothing and better feeding of people, processes of immunization, and control and cure of deadly diseases and injuries.

2. History of humanistic movements aimed at eliminating violence, wars, racialism, poverty, disease, illiteracy and other forms of backwardness, and bringing human beings closer to one another, irrespective of their caste, colour or creed.

These prizes are administered by the National Book Centre of Pakistan, and the manuscripts should reach the Centre's headquarter at Theosophical Hall, Bunder Road, Karachi, in the case of Urdu manuscripts, and its branch office at 67-A, Purana Paltan, Dacca, in the case of Bengali manuscripts, by the last date of entry announced each year.

BOOK PRODUCTION AWARDS OF NATIONAL BOOK CENTRE OF PAKISTAN

Instituted in : 1962

Total Amount of Prizes : Rs. 8,000

Languages : Urdu and Bengali

Frequency : Annual.

Last Date of Entry : January 10 or As Announced

Date of Announcement of Awards : April

In accordance with its objective of achieving better standards of book production in the country, the National Book Centre of Pakistan instituted a set of awards of a total amount of Rs. 8,000 in 1962. These awards do not concern the contents of a book. They are given away to publishers, artists and illustrators for excellence of get-up, lay-out, designing, printing, illustrations and typography. The details of the awards are given below.

Prizes for Publishers

Four Production Prizes of Rs. 1,000 each, two for Urdu and two for Bengali. These will go to books getting the first place in the competition. Out of the two prizes for each language, one is reserved for a book for children.

Four Production Prizes of Rs. 500 each, two for Bengali and two for Urdu, to be awarded to the second best-produced books. Out of these prizes also, one each is reserved for a children's book.

Prizes for Designers and Illustrators

Four prizes of Rs. 500 each, two for Bengali and two for Urdu.

The selection is restricted to books formally submitted for the contest.

Since the institution of these awards, the standards of book production in the country have begun looking up appreciably. Now, more than ever before, we find our publishers taking extra pains to produce books that are aesthetically more satisfying.

RULES

Two copies of each book, with the specification of the category of prize for which it is to be considered (Books for Adults or Books for Children) and with the certification of the date of printing, shall be delivered, in the case of Urdu books at the National Book Centre of Pakistan, Theosophical Hall, Bunder Road, Karachi, and in the case of Bengali books at the Dacca Office of the National Book Centre of Pakistan, 1st Floor, Boy Scouts Association Building, 67-A, Purana Paltan, Dacca, personally or by post, by January 10 or as announced from time to time.

Reproductions of books, designs or illustrations originally produced outside Pakistan will not be eligible for consideration.

Judgement will be based only on the physical qualities and not on the contents of a book.

CERTIFICATE

(to accompany the books entered)

Certified that the book............................was published between January 1 and December 31 of the year...................... Its jacket design or illustrations were NOT originally produced outside Pakistan. The name of the designer/illustrator is.................................
